

invites its members and the community to hear

Lynne Reeves Griffin, RN, MEd

speak on her new book

Negotiation Generation: Take Back Your Parental Authority Without Punishment!

“Once upon a time, parents were parents and children were children. Today, our fast paced lives and changes in the popular culture have children claiming more independence than they can handle. Parents are losing their authority and negotiating with their children about everything. All this negotiating is exhausting and it doesn’t teach children how to handle the intense pressure to grow up too quickly.”

Thursday, October 11, 2007

12 Noon

The Steward School

Paul R. Cramer Center for the Arts

7:00 P.M.

St. Catherine’s School

Lower School Assembly Room

Lynne lectures, writes, and consults with parents, teachers, and health care professionals regarding child development, behavior management and issues affecting today’s families. For more about Lynne’s work, visit her website at www.LynneGriffin.com.

All parents, faculty, and members of the Richmond community invited! Books will be sold at each event with book signing opportunities available.

No Admittance Charge

For more information, please contact Carter Bryan at 282-1045 or mrsbusyb@aol.com